Tod Todd – Ice Fisher
Tournament Angler & Guide
LOCAL AREA ICE STRATEGIES

Tod Todd is a veteran ice fisher who started fishing at a young age with his Dad and older brother Scott, primarily fishing the Fox Chain, and southern Wisconsin waters. He also has started his kids at the age of three teaching them to land big gills thru the ice.

Tod fished the old Trap Attacks and now fishes the NAIFC finishing as high as 5th place in the 2008 championship in Rhinelander Wisconsin. Some ice seasons he may hold up to 7 fishing licenses in as many different states and Canada traveling over 10,000 miles. Tod starts fishing the last weekend in November until putting away his gear the last weekend in March after the Genz Invitational in Orr, Minnesota.

Tod spends over 60 days a season ice and teaching other the great sport. He has been spotlighted on Outdoors TV shows and many newspapers / magazines.

It's been a few years since having a seminar on ice fishing, so this is a great opportunity for members and guests both to learn some valuable information from a local expert about our local ice fishing opportunity. Since Tod fishes many North American locations and personally knows experts far and wide, I'm sure he will be happy to also answer your questions about you adventures outside the local area.
